

More news

Dear OPSYRIS members,

It is an exciting time for OPSYRIS, with lots of news to share. So here we are again with some interesting opportunities to get involved.

Best wishes,
Nele, Owen, Elise, and Kathleen

Stroke Priority Setting Partnership

The Stroke Association is leading a priority setting exercise. They want to find out what the most important issues are for stroke survivors and health care professionals. This will influence which research will be prioritised in the next years.

The exercise is in its last consultation phase. People can now vote for what they think future research should focus on. So far, they only heard from 11 psychologists, compared to about 60 physiotherapists. We can do better!

Please let your voice be heard and speak up about the psychological challenges after stroke you and your stroke survivors experience. We have two weeks left to change the direction of research in the future.

Online event

Thank you for all of you who have voted for their favourite 'how to' 1 hour online sessions. So far Option 3 is the most popular. Do you disagree? Let us know! We will leave the survey open until end of March. It takes only 1 minute of your time: <https://tinyurl.com/yaf2t2yp>

- Option 1: Moving into research from a clinical role
- Option 2: Navigating NHS ethics and approvals
- Option 3: Capacity assessment after stroke: What do we know?
- Option 4: Other (please specify)
